Introduction

Welcome to Ideas-Shared, the Coached Ambition Realisation Platform that puts you, your group, organisation, and your cause centre stage.

In Guide 4, you'll discover the Top 30 things to do on our platform that can, with foresight, planning, and action bring about those burning ambitions you most think about, and care about.

Ideas-Shared offer you a purpose-built platform to intelligently collaborate with other individuals, and groups including communities, businesses, and governments of every size and shape throughout the world.

This opens-up the world like never-before, giving you a platform to share your ambitions on any topic, to ask for help, get help, then plan and execute tasks that deliver the desired outcomes you want.

Of course, the tasks will be different in many instances, given these are variables specific to the outcomes that you want to achieve.

Apart from the individual tasks just mentioned, these 30 Top 30s to do, are the strong foundations that underpin all activity on Ideas-Shared.

Do these 30 Top 30s regularly because not only are they important they also work.

In fact, Ideas-Shared was built on many of these self-same 'things to do' which is why we are very confident that if you follow our 7-Step Process, (which incorporates all the Top 30 things to do); your chances of success increase.

Naturally, we cannot guarantee that you will succeed. This will be down to the quality and popularity of the ambition you want to realise, ideology, beliefs, the market, available help and resources, other conditions within your organisation, or country etc.

But, if you persevere, and bring in the required help, and support, then anything is possible. After all, Ideas-Shared was once nothing more than an ambition itself. Look what it is today, a vehicle to facilitate change and improvement the world over, powered by the ambitions of millions of people.

Enjoy.

Top 30 #1: Decide

Will billions of people on the planet, it's not surprising that many don't have a voice, an outlet to share their ideas, and thoughts, to ask for help, get help, and attempt to change and improve those parts of our world where one believes change and improvement is needed.

But all that is about to change, and all you need to do is seize the moment and grab an account on Ideas-Shared to help you do exactly that.

Ideas-Shared offers a 'self-help' platform whereby individuals and entities globally, (these can be official or unofficial special interest groups, communities, organisations, or businesses of every type); identify 18 primary ideas and thought type activities, across 50+ high-level categories that they want to undertake to deliver a specific outcome for.

These are then shared with the world, people are invited to help, and finally, teams come together to plan and execute those tasks that deliver the end goals.

It's all possible on our platform, you just need to make a decision and start, it really is as simple as that.

Seizing the opportunity, wanting a better world, wanting to have your say, and wanting to do something about something is our number one priority on Ideas-Shared.

Top 30 #2: Channel Your Energy

Everything that happens in the world, to your surroundings, to your work, to your family and friends, and especially to you has the potential to create all manner of unwanted and unnecessary behaviour.

This behaviour manifests itself in either an inferior or superior way. Inferior behaviour includes being anxiety, confused, over-thinking things, being worried, being indecisive, trying to impress, feelings of not being good enough, and wanting to blame others. Superior behaviour lends itself to being demanding, antagonistic, being full of anger, hate, being scornful, stubborn, as well as resisting others.

This behaviour can cause all manner of damage, as well as unhelpful consequences.

By being in the moment, being able to focus 100% on the issue, or opportunity at hand effectively bypasses these inferior and superior behaviours, stopping self-sabotage and enabling progress.

This is what's meant by not sweating the small stuff... let it go, it doesn't help!

Instead channel your energy, those behaviours into value that come from being in the moment.

Top 30 #3: Use Curiosity & Intuition

Getting away from inferior and superior behaviour can be done by focusing on the issues and opportunities at hand.

When what you think, what you say, what you do, and how you act are all promoting the same message, then you are in alignment.

Being in alignment and not displaying those inferior and superior behaviour invariably means that you're acting as the real you and whilst being you, you can use your curiosity to find a way forward.

In addition, when you are you, you'll also be able to tap into your innermost intuition, which is designed to guide you to a higher purpose.

Whenever you disregard your intuition, you are giving your ego the power to keep creating false stories that keep you filled with fear and continuously stuck. Your intuition is saying, stop, it's time to start doing something different.

Top 30 #4: Gain Perspective

Once you've seized the moment and made a conscious decision to join Ideas-Shared, the next thing to do is gain perspective.

Something that many of us don't always do, (and this is just the way things are, it's not a criticism); is to gain a broader perspective from the one we hold today. Your curiosity will naturally take you there.

We all see the world in different ways. Some people are highly logical, whilst others use emotion. Some come from a corporate background, whilst others are public sector, and some are clearly rebels. Everyone brings a little baggage to the party, and this can easily limit our thinking.

Our backgrounds, working practices, and education all contribute to clouding, or limiting our perspectives, or beliefs.

Here are two thoughts worth holding onto:

1. Ideas-Shared is a facilitator of change and improvement. It's taken years to build, and a lot of thought and effort has gone into its creation. You don't need to reinvent the wheel, just learn from our experience, and follow the process.
2. We all have ambitions, goals, ideas, and thoughts, but unless we share them, and do something with them, they will turn to dust.

Top 30 Things to Do on Ideas-Shared

Our platform will do what it says, but to get the results you seek requires a combination of perspective, logic, emotion, mental agility, and practical application, both in terms of using the platform, as well as spending time on the activities chosen to achieve your goals.

Our member library provides deep insight into all facets of the platform, and how you can identify the key deliverables that you are aiming to achieve using Ideas-Shared.

Top 30 #5: Understand the Basics

Ideas-Shared is a Coached Ambition Realisation Platform that's designed to help members achieve personal and entity, or organisation ambitions, whatever they may be, whenever, and wherever it's needed. It was created to fill a void, where many people simply don't have this kind of solution available to them.

Designed specifically to bring individuals and groups together to facilitate change, and improvement, there is a wealth of information available to you in the members are to learn more about our platform, and the methodology used.

Of course, change and improvement are two different things:

- Change is doing something different from what you're doing today.
- Improvement is getting better at doing something that you're already doing.

It's important to remember that Members use Ideas-Shared when they don't have the help, support, or leverage needed to succeed. We help to widen their circle of influence, and help attract the skills, and resources needed.

At the end of the day, achieving one's ambitions is as much a process as is boiling an egg, and here are the steps we recommend you follow when using our platform:

- Identify your goals by importance, and urgency
- Understand the as is, and identify where you want to be
- Plan how to get there i.e., who will help you, what do you need (people, time, and resources, how long will it take etc.
- Ask for help when you need it
- Build teams, and implement whatever you need to do to achieve your goals, measure the results, and adapt as necessary

We've taken these principles and turned them into our own powerful 7 Step Process to use whenever, and wherever you're looking to achieve a goal with other individuals, and groups.

Top 30 #6: Be Honest

You came to Ideas-Shared to achieve an ambition, to improve your own life, or the lives of other people, or indeed the environment, or a business, even government!

Whatever it is that you want to achieve, be honest, with yourself and others in terms of the current situation, what you want to achieve, why you want to achieve it, what the value and benefit of any change and improvement might be, what help you need, as well as what any next steps might look like.

Over time, we've all seen many politicians (as an example) 'lie' about the status quo, or why things are like they are... and they have little credibility, nor integrity.

On Ideas-Shared, your word is your bond.

Top 30 #7: Complete Your Profiles

One of the first steps in mastering Ideas-Shared appears at first glance to be the easiest step. Your profile, or that of your group, organisation, community, or business is the backbone of your entire Ideas-Shared presence and crafting your profile involves a delicate balance of accuracy and personality.

All the information you include in your profile depends on your personal, or organisation brand identity.

Ideas-Shared is a personalised extension of you, or your brand, but that doesn't mean you should throw your brand voice and personality out the window just to fit in on the platform.

To ensure you have a cohesive brand identity across all platforms and outlets, create your profile in a way that stays on brand, while showing off your unique personality.

Every Ideas-Shared Account has two profiles, your main one can only be seen by other members, whereas your front end profile can be seen by non-members, plus it showcases all of the Listings that you have posted.

Setting up is quick and easy, and of course you can amend these as often as you like.

Every Ideas-Shared account has two main images: the profile picture and header. Your Ideas-Shared profile image should be recognisable to other members, including your friends, colleagues, customers, and fans to gain their trust.

Use either a picture of yourself or use a logo that represents your organisation or group. Your header image can be a more creative image that adds a dash of personality to your profile.

Top 30 #8: Follow the 7-Step Process

Understand and follow the 7-Step Process for achieving any ambition.

The process is easy to remember and includes these 7 Steps:

- Step 1: Identify the change and improvement you want to see
- Step 2: Post activity Personal or Organisation listing (i.e., your ambitions)
- Step 3: Share those ideas-and thoughts online and offline
- Step 4: Ask for help
- Step 5: Meet people willing to help (in groups and forums)
- Step 6: Plan and execute tasks that deliver outcomes
- Step 7: Close out activity, capture the value and the benefits, repeat as often as necessary

Whether you're an individual, a single group, or an organisation with multiple groups set up on Ideas-Shared, you simply need to follow this 7 Step Process through to conclusion each time you want to deliver a specific outcome.

Top 30 #9: Identify Your Goals

On Ideas-Shared you can strive to achieve almost any personal, community, social, business, environmental, economic, financial, or political ambition or goal.

There are no limits as to what you want to change or improve, it's entirely up to you, and you won't be alone.

On Ideas-Shared we aggregate ambitions from all over the world, and some will be the same, which is fine.

The more ambitions and goals posted to our Ambition Directory, the greater the chance there is, that someone will do something about it.

That's the key. It's not about blame, or anything like that, it's about coming to a consensus at a local and global population, and then together, with the right people in the room, take whatever steps are needed to achieve a better outcome.

It doesn't matter who the beneficiary is either. You can focus on yourself, or you can identify ambitions that help other people, other organisations, or the fabric of society itself, including the environment.

There are no limits to what you could achieve on Ideas-Shared, that's the beauty of having a global ambition directory and social network that can scale.

Top 30 #10: Engage in Forums

Ideas-Shared Forum interaction is a great way to open-up discussions on all matter of topics. They are not the same as Activity Listings or Groups, rather they fulfil a different purpose.

Engaging in Forums enables structured question and answer type conversations. They're designed to share information, clarify thinking, and gauge support before you post listings, build groups, or identify tasks, etc.

Forums are not the place to sell or promote free, or paid solutions. (Hint: use a solution listing for this type of activity).

You can create Forums within any Group, too; plus, there are 270+ Forums already set up that you can use immediately. Use them widely to prompt lots of debate and engagement between our members.

Top 30 #11: Be Clear on What to Ask For

Activity listings are comprehensive vehicles that enable you to ask for whatever help you need to achieve your end goal.

For each listing members can choose to ask for the following help and support:

- Core Team: Responsible for leading and managing the project.
- Direct Action: Substantial actions beyond member/public support to achieve overall ambition.
- Funding or Income: Securing financial resources from grants, donations, etc.
- Infrastructure: Physical and organisational structures for project operations.
- Knowledge or Skills: Expertise and capabilities needed for project activities.
- Member Support: Help from other Ideas-Shared members.
- Policy or Law Changes: Advocacy to align policies/laws with project objectives.
- Professional Services: Obtaining legal, accounting, or consulting support.
- Public Support: Garnering support from the public.
- Resources & Materials: Acquiring and managing project resources and materials.
- Trades: Sourcing skilled labour for specific tasks/services.
- Volunteers: Pool of contributors to the project.

This provides a powerful framework from which other members can search for specific needs and wants and contact List Owners directly if they choose to offer what's needed.

Top 30 #12: Calculate Benefits

On Ideas-Shared everything you, or your group strive for is personal to you, or your organisation, or business.

This revolves around identifying the specific value and benefit you're seeking to deliver through our platform, such that it helps other people determine whether they want to help, and that the outcomes can be measured to see if the desired result has been achieved.

Clearly, how you define, and measure value and benefit is, and always will be specific to the Activity Listings you wish to share.

Below are just some examples of the value and benefit you can strive for on Ideas-Shared:

- Be x% more confident in achieving an outcome
- Build a team that delivers x sooner
- Influence x% more people to your way of thinking
- Get the help you need x% quicker
- Reduce poverty by x%
- Share you story to x more people
- Speed up the job by x%
- Make people x% happier
- Increase order book by x%
- Travel x% less per day
- Improve revenue by £x
- Share your capabilities with x% more people
- Extend your service by x months/years
- Grow your following by x people
- Attract x thousand more visitors
- Change the Law relating to Statute x
- Increase life expectancy by x years

Create whatever financial, cost, and benefit documentation that you need, and ensure these are added to pertinent Activity Listings.

Top 30 #13: Be Clear on Next Steps

Every Activity listing has a feature whereby List Owners can itemise the 'Next Steps' it would like those interested in supporting to follow.

Be sure to spend time thinking about how you want other members or non-members to act so that you can quickly determine if they are the right fit for you.

Top 30 Things to Do on Ideas-Shared

This makes it easy for interested parties to contact the List Owner if they support the overall ambition.

Top 30 #14: Post Activity Listings

No matter what we want to achieve, getting from A to B is all about doing activities, and posting Personal and Organisation 'ambition activity' listings lie at the heart of the Ideas-Shared experience. This is how your ambitions are transmitted to the world.

On Ideas-Shared there are 18 different Activity Types that you can choose to undertake as needed. Each delivers specific outcomes, and these outcomes have associated value and benefit to yourself and others:

- Share Ideas: Share innovative concepts and proposals to inspire and spark creativity.
- Rant: Vent frustrations or express grievances on specific topics.
- Fix Problems: Discuss challenges, seek insights, and collaborate on finding solutions.
- Share Knowledge: Share informative content, articles, or thought-provoking insights.
- Ask Questions: Ask for information, advice, or input from the community.
- Offer Solutions: Offer practical answers or resolutions to address specific issues.
- Manage Jobs: Explore opportunities or advertise job openings.
- Showcase Places: Discover and share information about different locations or venues.
- Promote Events: Discover and promote upcoming events, fostering community engagement.
- Express Opinions: Express viewpoints, share perspectives, and engage in healthy debates.
- Offer Help: Extend support, expertise, or services to assist others.
- Start Discussions: Engage in conversations, exchange ideas, and foster meaningful interactions.
- Supply Tutorials: Offer step-by-step instructions, guidance, or educational content.
- Post Announcements: Communicate important notices, updates, or announcements.
- Request Help: Seek assistance or support from the community for specific needs.
- Submit Adverts: Promote products, services, new and old to reach a wider audience.
- Present Recommendations: Provide suggestions and endorsements for various items or activities.
- Post Fun Stuff: Explore and participate in entertaining or enjoyable activities within the community.

What you choose to post, and the frequency is entirely up to you. All we ask is that you allocate sufficient time to do justice to the activity itself.

Top 30 #15: Invite Everyone

The more people there are using our platform, sharing their ambitions, the more opportunity there is to fulfil those ambitions, and to work together to change and improve our world.

That's why we make it easy for you to invite your family, friends, colleagues, and neighbours to our platform so that they can access Guides like this and make an informed choice as to whether to join. This is an important Top 30 Thing to Do and indirectly helps everyone!

The potential really is awesome... here's a global change and improvement platform that does more than simply share photos or sentiments!

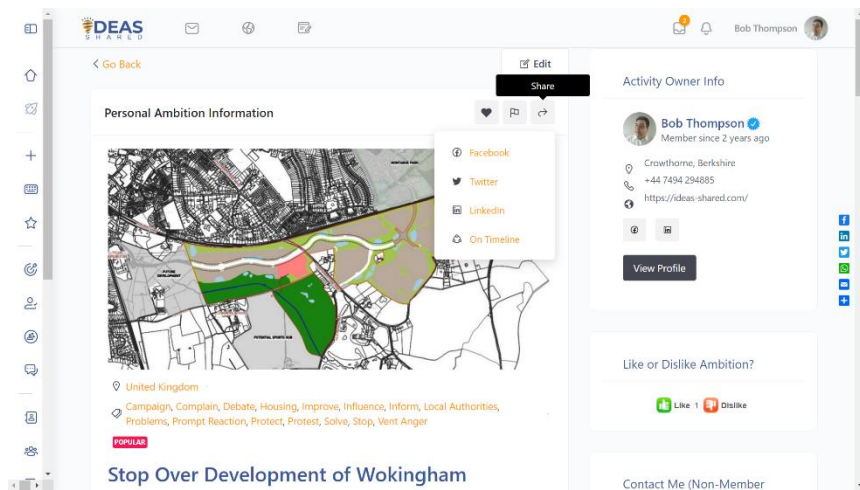

Top 30 #16: Syndicate Listings

Once you've drafted, and posted your Activity Listing, it's time to get it out there. One handy feature is to syndicate it as needed to either Facebook, Twitter, or LinkedIn.

Of course, you can syndicate your own Activity Listings as well as those from other members, which you find compelling and interesting. Everything is done from the Listing Detail page.

Just click on the relevant icon and follow the process. It's quick, easy, efficient and a staple of social media marketing.

If you're looking for support for your Activity Listing outside of your usual network, then syndication is a must.

Top 30 #17: Use Posters to Advertise

There is a big world beyond the keyboard, therefore it makes sense to advertise your Listings, even Ideas-Shared using Posters.

We currently provide 5 different versions which you can add content to, (i.e., your Listing URL, or other such information in the white box); which you can then print off as many times as needed, and put up in shop windows, noticeboards etc.

Top 30 #18: React Accordingly to Listings

Members and visitors will naturally come across Activity Listings (and no doubt other people); whom they don't like or agree with.

In these instances, visitors can either ignore them, or in the case of an Activity Listing, navigate to the Detail Page and Review/Rate it or Like/Dislike it.

That's it.

Natural selection will do far more than individuals becoming angry or frustrated by the ambitions of others.

After all, where all in this together, and our driving force is all about making a difference in the world...

Top 30 #19: Don't Procrastinate or Blame

Here's something we fully recommend, and it makes you feel better too! And that's not blaming others, nor procrastinating.

One could also add gossiping, but hey, that's a national pastime here in the UK!

Seriously though, we all feel better by being more positive than negative, regardless of what's happening in the wider world...

Let's face it, the changes and improvements we want to see happen won't happen if we're in a dark place, and use all of our energy blaming or complaining.

Top 30 #20: Speak to Interested Parties

There's magic in the air when you forward your listings to people who may want to help you. You are connecting at a higher level, you're asking for help, and you're inviting real progress into your life.

Of course, if you're looking to achieve a goal with a group of people that you already know then this will be a quick step.

Chances are they already know what needs doing and you can move on to planning and executing specific tasks.

All it takes is a conversation.

Everyone who chooses to help you will at some time prior joined Ideas-Shared, so when you come across interested parties, simply check out the profiles, jump onto a Zoom call (Zoom API needed), or use your phone and have a chat.

Let's not overcomplicate matters.

You'll know if there is a meeting of the mind with someone else, and you'll know if you like the other party too.

So...

- Can you get along?
- Is it friendly?
- Do they have similar ambitions, and goals?
- Do they have what you need?
- Can you do what's needed (i.e., the tasks) in the right timeframe?

Always get to know who you're talking to and get proof of who they are if you're not sure. Look for the clues on member profile... e.g., have they got lots of friends, can you substantiate prior performance, maybe other members have rated them?

(If you're a little anxious about giving something away, or that your idea will be stolen then simply invoke a Mutual Confidentiality Agreement with the other party. This process is described in the member library, plus there's a draft copy of a Mutual NDA available to. Don't forget to consult with a Lawyer if need be).

Of course, as you undertake conversations with other members, there will come a time that you need to agree to work together.

Agreeing to accept help from another party requires acceptance on your part, which can be as simple as saying 'yes' or 'let's go do this'.

But don't rush into anything, take your time, reflect, and then decide.

Top 30 Things to Do on Ideas-Shared

On Ideas-Shared, Groups are the vehicle used to bring like-minded people together. These are purposeful 'vehicles' that help deliver results, as opposed to a lounge area where nothing ever happens.

As a member of Ideas-Shared, be mindful of your activity listings, and what you want each to achieve. Similarly, with Groups, be mindful about what you want the Group for, and what it needs to, or is currently achieving.

If you have a Group, ensure other people can instantly recognise what it is that you want the Group to deliver. Always state your goals in glorious black and white text in the Group Description.

Ask yourself:

Is your Group simply a place to share information, or are you using it to build a team that will ultimately go on to achieve a specific outcome?

As a member of Ideas-Shared, you have privileged access to people that want to make a difference in the world. Therefore, you should only consider joining a Group if you are willing to help undertake Projects and Tasks.

If you're not willing to roll up your sleeves and get involved, then the rule is don't join a Group unless it is designed for more of a meeting place only.

Be mindful also, that in this world of information, we are now institutionalised into believing that information is everything. It isn't.

Groups are not another repository for yet more unactionable information. They're not just a library for images or documents, that do not contribute to the end goal.

Groups are and should be vibrant communities which add value, and progress an activity listing, and which produce a Project, and Tasks that Group Members complete to deliver the desired outcome.

Without that purpose it just becomes another data repository.

Top 30 #21: Create & Build Teams

Creating and building teams are fundamental to turning ideas and thought into value and benefit. It's no different on Ideas-Shared.

As you post your Activity Listings, create Groups into which you can bring interested parties.

Remember, your teams are not employees, they join you willingly because of your thought leadership, and desire to make a difference in the world.

Therefore, treat your teams with the respect they deserve, they'll most likely do the same for you, then together you can work out how best to achieve your joint goals.

Top 30 #22: Keep Your Promises

As List Owners, or as team members, our word is always our bond.

So...

- Be Organised, as we often make promises impulsively...
- Be Motivated, because it's much easier to keep a promise when you genuinely want to do so...
- Don't Overpromise, there will always be occasions when you know that you can't deliver, so just be honest about it...
- Be Principled...
- Be Sincere.

It's true, these are all Top 30 Thing to Do.

Top 30 #23: Agree & Manage Tasks Well

Tasks are another key foundation for all success on Ideas-Shared. Tasks are the individual elements that propel your Activity Listing through to some conclusion or other.

As you create your Teams, always remember that we don't live in an autocratic or authoritarian world. Tasks need to be jointly agreed with the people who want to help you.

A systematic approach to project management is the substance that holds your entire program together. Poor planning can spell death for a project before it even gets underway.

According to Project Management Institute (PMI), project management involves the "application of knowledge, skills, tools, and techniques to a broad range of activities in order to meet requirements of a particular task."

Due to the immense array of complex and technically challenging projects in today's world, regardless of what one is trying to achieve, developing a strong management template has become an increasingly critical skill.

The harsh truth is that many have not yet found an effective rhythm that aligns with their goals. To put this into perspective, for every $1 billion invested in the United States alone, $122 million is wasted due to lacking project performance. With that in mind, to ensure your project is successful, it is crucial to use SMART in project planning.

- Specific: details exactly what needs to be done
- Measurable: achievement and progress can be measured
- Achievable: objective is accepted by those responsible for achieving it
- Realistic: objective is possible to attain
- Timing: selecting a suitable time period for achievement

Top 30 Things to Do on Ideas-Shared

Ultimately, including this strategy in your approach should work to answer the 4 W's.

- What needs to be accomplished?
- Why are we doing this?
- Who will be involved in the process?
- Where will the necessary resources come from?

So how exactly can you use the SMART goals in project management?

Specific: Outline Goals

First and foremost, you need to know the major goals leading towards the big picture and the smaller ones necessary to get there. Take a deep look into the scope of the tasks at hand and identify exactly what you want to accomplish and how it plays into your overall mission.

Measurable: Create a List of Deliverables

Setting a requirement for deliverables is the life and blood of a project. Take a deeper look, and you will see that deliverables extend far beyond just the results. They serve as reference points for how tasks are planned, managed, and executed from A to Z. In general, there are two types of deliverables to take into consideration throughout project management: Project and Process.

In general, there are two types of deliverables to take into consideration throughout project management: Project and Process.

Project deliverables refer to the outcomes based on specific needs. These are typically tangible items. For instance, if the project is designing a new website, deliverables would include things like landing pages or certain elements completed.

Process deliverables are all about realizing the details of the outcome. This is in relation to the way in which projects are played out. An example would be how well a project is sticking to the allotted timeframe or the overall quality of the completed work.

Achievable: Determine Contribution Disbursement

Plain and simple, without a skilled team, your projects do not stand a chance. However, a top-notch crew is severely comprised without a proper system in place for task disbursement. After all, project management is typically a group effort.

Realistic: Identify Risk Factors

It doesn't matter how much prior planning you put into a project, there will almost always be something unexpected that pops up and throws everything off course. So, what does a good project manager do in these situations? They stay calm and keep moving. Why? Because they planned for the unexpected!

Top 30 Things to Do on Ideas-Shared

Timely: Set Timelines

Creating deadlines inevitably prompts a sense of urgency amongst workers. The most important thing to do here is to be realistic. The stress of meeting ridiculous timelines can result in workers getting disgruntled, or quality being sacrificed for speed.

Ideas-Shared provides both an online solution, as well as an Excel Template to manage your task deliverables.

Top 30 #24: Listen to Advice then Decide

As you bring teams together, or even if you're part of a team, it's always useful to listen to advice, think about things and make appropriate decisions.

None of us know everything, and whilst everyday should be fun, listening to the advice of others is an indispensable skill that can help you no end.

Top 30 #25: Focus 100% on Listing Goals

Once you Activity Listing is live, once you created your Group, and once you start bringing people together to help you, then it's all about focusing 100% on the tasks at hand.

We don't advocate working ridiculous hours, because that achieves little, but we do advocate that you think about your goals fully until they're achieved.

The more you and your team focus on your goals, as well as how to achieve them, the higher your chances of success are.

We know that without that level of focus, Ideas-Shared simply wouldn't be where it is today.

Top 30 #26: See Results For What They Are

Results are simply that. They tell us where we are and provide a gauge as to how far we've come, as well as how far we've yet to go to achieve our ambition.

Top 30 Things to Do on Ideas-Shared

Much has been said about failing, and no doubt you'll have heard about teachers during childhood who often state that child A or child B will never amount to much! (Someone even said that about me, long, long, ago).

Whatever you do, don't take results to heart, they are merely signposts that tell you where you are at a point in time.

At the end of the day, if you're not getting the results you want, change tack, do something different and see where it takes you!

Sometimes no amount of effort gets you where you want to go, and that's fine too... that's life... when things like this happen, slow down, read, ask questions, and take your time looking for the answers that will help you move forward again.

There's certainly no point in drowning your sorrows with any substance, because usually these will just make you feel worse. No give things time, and usually the way forward shows itself.

Top 30 #27: Savour Success

There's more to life than work, therefore it makes sense to appreciate what you have, what you're able to achieve, and what you have achieved!

Remember, success is often due to the efforts of many, so savouring that success should be undertaken by all involved.

Don't forget to thank everyone that has helped you succeed and remember that you can approach your teams and ask them to help you time, and time again.

Top 30 #28: Build Your Network

Every member of Ideas-Shared, whether you know them or not, is a potential ally of yours, someone who may come to your aid, or who you might one day choose to help!

Building your network of dependable individuals, and groups (yes you can network with any number of members is well worth doing).

Be nice to everyone you meet; and use our member search function to find people with the skills, and experience you need!

Relationships are key to everything, so it's most definitely a Top 30 Thing to Do, to cultivate a broad array of contacts that you can turn to when needed!

Top 30 Things to Do on Ideas-Shared

At the end of the day, building a list of hundreds or thousands of contacts that never do anything, doesn't really achieve a lot... so be wise and build a real network of people that really do look out for each other, and help each other succeed when needed.

Top 30 #29: Embrace a Change Culture

Change and improvement is with us all our lives. Therefore, it makes sense to embrace a culture of change, and improvement.

Simply be consistently looking at where change and improvement could enhance our world, keeping a log of possible opportunities, and constantly using Ideas-Shared to post new Activity Listings of any type, to alert other people about these, and to illicit help.

Use our Worksheets to help you here, or create your own recording, and activity capturing process.

Top 30 #30: Help Other People

People are generally not selfish, so it stands to reason that we help each other as often as we can.

On Ideas-Shared, you help other people by engaging with their Activity Listings, whether that's by offering help, providing required resources, planning, and executing tasks with list-owners, or simply liking/disliking a listing.

If we hope and expect other people to help us, then clearly, the only natural thing to do is reciprocate, and help others, too!

Top 30 Bonus 1: Keep Learning & Developing

As a List Owner and member of Ideas-Shared there's plenty of things to do, and lots has been outlined in this Guide.

Beyond managing our Listings, developing teams, and planning and executing tasks that deliver the outcomes we want, there's always time to keep learning and developing.

Ideas-Shared provides Life-Skills refreshers in the member's area. These short reads provide you with yet more perspectives, hints, and tips to use as you develop your portfolio, and teams on our platform.

After all, life is all about learning!

Top 30 Bonus 2: Learn More About Us

We created Ideas-Shared because of our own difficulties in finding help to develop our own ideas. Based on our experiences, we didn't want other people to have the same challenges as us

Our platform is based on the simple premise that to be successful, achieving our ambitions, turning these in actionable strategies such as developing ideas, overcoming challenges, and fixing problems, building teams, getting the required help and resources, as well as harnessing appropriate levels of leverage and popularity, starts by learning all you can about us.

In every instance, acting upon our ambitions requires a team of people who can help us, and optimise the process of progressing from where we are today, to where we want to go.

This is such a broad topic, and we believe that we've made everything a lot simpler for everyone to achieve their goals.

Top 30 Bonus 3: The Law of Polarity

The law of polarity is life principle which simply states that everything has two "poles": good and evil, love and hate, attraction, and disconnection.

Think of the North and South Poles on a globe or a battery with its negative and positive terminals. Everything in the universe has an opposite. Everything is dual. And it's what allows us to experience life to the fullest and appreciate the good in the world.

"For every action, there is an equal and opposite reaction." This is Newton's Third Law of Motion, and it sums up the law of polarity perfectly. It means that forces come in pairs: negative and positive, action and reaction, masculine and feminine. You can not only nurture certain energies within yourself, but also use the law of polarity to draw other energies to you – like a magnet.

Think of it this way: Could you know happiness without sadness? Is there love without pain? Dark without light? And in relationships, is there sexual attraction without opposing energies?

Understand that for every Activity Listing that you share on Ideas-Shared, the potential to achieve a different outcome, the opposite of what you're experiencing today is possible.

Next Steps

Technology offers humanity a huge opportunity to collaborate like never-before, but AI, Robotic Process Automation, and Blockchain can only go so far!

If we are to achieve our potential, not just in terms of achieving our personal ambition, but of materially fixing many of the issues that cause so many people pain and heartache, then working together is the only option.

We need to confront the big issues head on... and we need to create and deliver solutions that overcome many of the inefficiencies people are so accustomed to.

In almost every society throughout the world, we've created unnecessary complexity and division.

How we manage socio-politics, finances, and every facet of civilisation will be key to moving mankind on.

You can be part of this new revolution in thinking and help by using our Coached Ambition Realisation Platform.

Everything is possible if we make the effort to share our ambitions and act.

Thank you for reading and good luck with all your ambitions and endeavours progressed on Ideas-Shared, both today and in the future.

About Us

At Ideas-Shared, our journey began with a shared vision and a passion for empowering individuals to achieve their aspirations. Co-founded by Ivar Ingimarsson and Bob Thompson, our platform is built on the belief that collaboration and unity are powerful catalysts for positive change.

Ivar Ingimarsson, a former professional footballer, brings his compassionate nature and genuine desire for the well-being of others to our team. Residing in Iceland, Ivar actively contributes to the growth of Ideas-Shared while nurturing tourism in his native country. His valuable insights and perspectives shape our vision and impact, amplifying our mission of facilitating collaboration among our diverse user bases.

Bob Thompson is a versatile individual with a diverse background, from military service to holding an MCIPS qualification as a procurement and supply professional. With an innate ability to troubleshoot and solve complex issues, Bob's straightforward communication style and dedication to providing value set him apart. He transformed the original concept of Ideas-Shared into the robust platform it is today. As a visionary leader, Bob is responsible for steering the direction, growth, and product strategy of our company, ensuring we meet the evolving needs of our users.

Together, Ivar and Bob's unwavering commitment to empowering individuals and fostering a sense of unity have shaped Ideas-Shared into a platform that brings people from all walks of life together. We provide opportunities for personal growth, community development, social impact, and business innovation. Join us on this transformative journey, where ambitious dreams become tangible realities, and together, we create a world of boundless possibilities.
